FLEET OF IRON CLAD GUNBOATS AT MOBILE.

The President .- Some journale, whose support of the President has been earnest and unfaltering, express dissprointment al the tameness of his recent proclamation. -Among these we notice the New York Commercial Advertiser, a paper whose course has been cautious and well considered, and whose opinions are entitled to just weight. It may be, though we are slow, yel, to believe it, that the friends of a more vigorous policy in the conduct of the war have been deceived in supposing that Mr. Lincoln was committed to such policy. We are prepared for great caution, on the part of the President; but we cannot give up the faith, that he will act up to the will of the people as expressed in the legislation of Congress, and to the demands for more vigorous measures, which come up from every gathering of the people,-One thing we feel most fully assured of that unless more vigorous measures are a dopted, President Lincoln must bid adieuto all hope of seeing the end of the war during his official term,-N.
